Materials needed:

Procedures:

2. Find books that are about letters or ABC's.
3. For a child, books with colorful, big pictures are the best!
4. Show and read a variety of these kinds of books to your child, discussing picture details using one or two words to do so (simple describing for this age is best!) Point to the letters and say them to your child.

5. If your child does not sit very well or listen to stories with you, put the books on the floor, sit on the floor next to the books and start looking at one by yourself; and when your infant sees your interest in them, they will more than likely come to your lap and show interest in looking at the books too!

Milestones to meet:

The child will look at a story. The child begins to learn letters and literacy development.
